EXPERIENCE

Kathleen joined Clark & Gotzler in 2016, after working as Managing Partner at Garvey, McNeil & Associates, LLC for nearly two decades. Throughout her legal career, Kathleen has represented a broad range of employers and employees, including individuals, non-profit and labor organizations and corporations. She has successfully represented clients in a variety of employment law matters, including wage and hour issues, wrongful discharge and employment discrimination claims. She has counseled employers on employee discipline and discharge issues, drafted employment contracts, employee handbooks and restrictive covenants including non-compete, severance and confidentiality agreements.

Kathleen's prior experience representing employees and labor unions brings an invaluable, diverse perspective to Clark & Gotzler's employer clients. While working at Garvey, McNeil & Associates, Kathleen also served as General Counsel to Harlem Globetrotters International, Inc. for over ten years. In addition to working closely with the management team to formulate and implement all personnel-related policies, she helped to negotiate and draft player contracts, sports venue agreements and licensing agreements.
